

6.0 credits

30.0 h

Teacher(s) :	Kaminski Dan ; Ravier Isabelle ;
Language :	Français
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Main themes :	Identification of the conditions and circumstances on which any practice depends. Study of methodological models and their theoretical basis from the point of view of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - their notion of potentially criminal problematic situations and of the change these situations are liable to lead to in it; - their differential indications; - their procedures and techniques of intervention as well as the specific processes used; - their ability to lead to different kinds of intervention and desired goals (of a legal, sociological, psychological, psychiatric and medical nature); - their ability to form the basis of individual, collective and institutional intervention; - their adaptability to intercultural contexts; - their ethical implications and social consequences. Development of methods of analysis of these practice issues and of evaluation of their effects and results.
Aims :	By the end of the course, students will be able: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - to understand the specific details of practice in relation to its conditions, context, its discipline of team work, its network of cooperation, its reference to the theoretical-methodological models it aims to employ; - to identify these specific details in the different fields where criminology is employed - to proceed to the intradisciplinary and interdisciplinary comparison of the testing that practice brings to bear on the models that govern it. The contribution of this Teaching Unit to the development and command of the skills and learning outcomes of the programme(s) can be accessed at the end of this sheet, in the section entitled "Programmes/courses offering this Teaching Unit".
Content :	The course is divided into three parts. The first part is devoted to the construction of a framework for the analysis of criminological practices. The second part is devoted to the paradigmatic, socio-historical and clinical study of contemporary issues in criminological intervention. The third part is devoted to the work of groups of students. The course methodology involves participation and group work (invitations to experts and practitioners, collective choice of topics for work and production of work by students). There is some compulsory reading in the second part of the course.
Other infos :	Evaluation is based solely on the oral presentation and on the written version of students' work and takes place during the third part of the course.
Cycle and year of study :	> Master [120] in Criminology
Faculty or entity in charge:	ECRI