

6.0 credits

30.0 h

Teacher(s) :	Adam Christophe ; Masson Antoine ; Roisin Jacques ;
Language :	Français
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Main themes :	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Specify what is understood by pathological psychology, what are the theorico-clinical requirements of the subject and the consequences of the approach in the debate with the juridical subjects, notably in the matter of responsibility and guilty. - Investigate various fields of psychopathology : their diversities of forms and figures; what, in the human existence, becomes pathological ; what are the stakes and dynamic processes ; in what are they likely to cause delinquent and/or deviant expression. The fields to be explored are these of contact disorders, sexual inversion and perversion, neurotic conflictualities and psychotic deterioration.
Aims :	At the end of the course, the students should be able to : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - understand how and why the different forms of the psychopathology are likely to participate to the emergence of various modalities of delinquency and/or deviancy ; - grasp the respective points of view in the debate between jurists and specialists on psychic pathology on the matter of an eventual part of pathology in the delinquency ; - conceive the pertinent research approaches in this field ; - consider how the social integration and the implications in the delinquency can lead to psychopathological disorders. The contribution of this Teaching Unit to the development and command of the skills and learning outcomes of the programme(s) can be accessed at the end of this sheet, in the section entitled "Programmes/courses offering this Teaching Unit".
Content :	To specify what we understand by Psychopathology, which are the clinical and theoretical requirements of the discipline and the consequences of its step in the debate with law disciplines, including questions about responsibility and culpability. To study various psychopathological dimensions and to look into the following items : the diversity of forms and figures according to these dimensions; which fields of human existence are likely to be "pathologised", which dynamical processes are under these productions of forms and figures, why they are likely to produce criminal behaviours (delinquency as well as deviance). Research fields are : disorders of "contact" and attachment, inversions and sexual perversions, neurotics conflicts and psychotics impairing.
Other infos :	Evaluation : oral examination
Cycle and year of study :	> Master [120] in Criminology > Advanced Master in Forensic Medicine
Faculty or entity in charge:	ECRI