

5.0 credits	30.0 h + 10.0 h	2q
-------------	-----------------	----

Teacher(s) :	Vandenbussche Hylke ;
Language :	Anglais
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Inline resources:	course notes and readings will be provided online at icampus
Main themes :	The workshop will be devoted to the interactions between the financial markets and monetary policy. An inter-esting manner of studying these problems is to examine: (1) how a central bank like the ECB or the American federal Reserve determines the direction of its monetary policy and (2) how monetary policy influences eco-nomic activity. Accordingly, a range of issues are tackled, including: what are the variables (real, financial) which influence the direction of monetary policy, should a central bank react to extreme movements in share values or property prices, how can the direction (restrictive, expansionist) of monetary policy be evaluated at a given point in time, through which financial channels does monetary policy influence economic activity, do these channels have the same importance in different countries and has their importance increased over time, etc.
Aims :	The main objectives of this workshop are to teach students: " To develop coherent economic argument; " Reading and summary skills; " To development arguments and written skills; " To present an argument; " To work in a group. The contribution of this Teaching Unit to the development and command of the skills and learning outcomes of the programme(s) can be accessed at the end of this sheet, in the section entitled "Programmes/courses offering this Teaching Unit".
Evaluation methods :	What is required for this seminar is to write a paper on one of the topics treated in the lecture series. Seminar papers have to be handed in and presented to the rest of the class at the end of term. The paper and presentation can be either in French or in English. Students are evaluated on the basis of the quality of their contributions in the discussions and on the basis of their written report. Insofar as work is completed in groups, they are required to each participate in the presentation to allow for an individual assessment.
Teaching methods :	Lecture series by a number of outside speakers on relevant EU topics followed by time for questions and group discussion
Content :	This seminar will deal with a number of hotly debated European Economic Policies and their international implications. Different speakers from academia and the European Commission are invited to Louvain to come and tell about an important policy area in Europe and about their experiences of what is going on at the Commission. The list of topics and speakers changes every year. Past topics included Trade policy, Fiscal policy, Environmental Policy, Poverty and regional disparities etc.
Other infos :	a course in micro- and macro- economics is a good preparation for this course ./ communication between professor and students goes via the electronic platform icampus. You should enroll in the course to have access to the online documents such as course notes and slides that will be posted.
Cycle and year of study :	> Bachelor in Economics and Management > Preparatory year for Master in Economics: General
Faculty or entity in charge:	ESPO