Content :	2016-2017 Religions and gender in the media Religious traditions have to face the challenge of gender studies exploring a reality which attracts ' sometimes with a kind of obsession ' the special attention of religions. Human bodies are considered as the scenes of salvation and of sin; they are objects of rigid norms and of ecstasy. The myths of masculinity and femininity produce narratives, images and messages: beginning with the founding documents of religions until the most recent representations in the world of advertising and in pop music. The course will reconstruct some aspects of this strange and difficult proximity of gender studies and religious studies which both have a hard time with finding a common ground. They still tell each other more often: Je t'aime' Moi non plus. This turbulent relationship will be examined on the basis of the presence of this issue in the media.
Bibliography :	Selected texts will be available on Moodle.
