Préalables	Practical aspects: The course, the supporting material and the references will be in English, students' interactions and productions (written, oral) are expected to be in English - so it's a must have to have more than a basic understanding of English. The course will be delivered for 150+ students and will require to work in team - so ability to speak in public and to partner/contribute in team work will be key. Functional prerequisites: Basic understanding of: - Human Resource - as a support function, - Organization theory & management - Mintzberg configurations, Schein's cultural model, - Convention theory - Basics of Change Management - is a nice to have. - Basic understanding of Process and Process design. The course will provide a crash class on the previous items (either during the introduction or via some notes).
Thèmes abordés	Purpose and Philosophy of the course: The course Advanced Human Resource & Organization Management (AHROM) has two targets: the future Operational (or line) managers, and the future Human Resource generalist practioner. To the future line manager, the course will bring an understanding of the HR function and its interactions with the business - it will answer questions such as: "how does HR help me ; to the future HR practioner, it will provide a framework and methodology to deliver value. To the future HR generalist or manager, the course will provide a strong framework and introduction in the core of the HR "business". It will answer questions such as: "how does HR create value in an organization?", "how do i create an HR strategy aligned with the business?"; "what are the roles HR should organize?".... and much more. The course is designed to confront students with real cases (incl. testimonials) where operations and HR/ Organization specialists teams up to face organization transformation challenges. The course is rooted in the contemporary managerial context where the following (non exhaustive) trends can be easily spotted: - typical organizational lifecycle events: merger, acquisition, downsizing, restructuring, transformation, ... - organizations are challenged: flat organizations, "entreprise libérée/liberated company" holocracy, ... - the role of manager is equally challenged: from a command-control perspective to a mentoring, coaching approach ...still delivering results; - organization of the work is challenged: new ways of working, "happiness at work", remote working, outsourcing, ... - leadership: new mandate for the leaders, ie to inspire, communicate, to impersonate the firm and not (only) "to tell" people... and for which a theoretical framework will be provided, in the form of keys to understand the role and value-add of an "HR/Business manager". Course assumptions: In this program, we assume that: - HR (and organization management) are in the business not side to the business; the strategic alignment between what is typically described as "supporting" functions is key to business success; - HR processes and practices are not the preserve of HR professionals; the effective management of people and organization is a combined responsibility of line manager, HR and employee (in generic term); - knowledge on HRM and Organisation Design and Development (how to organize work) are key to any manager, and learning how HR (must) create value and/or how to interact with HR Professionals is essential to line manager and leaders; Main topics covered: - Formal components of organizations, - Organization transformation, - Business & HR Value Proposition,
