Evaluation methods	The course consists of 10 sessions of 1h30, each one with its own theme (see contents). In addition to the theoretical concepts, a large place will be reserved for practical case management in physical and digital libraries. In order to facilitate interactive learning, some courses will be prepared in advance by the students (documentary research). Each student will also perform a personal audit of the management of a documentation center that will be presented to the others during two workshops (construction of goals, innovation) at the end of the year.
Teaching methods	The 15 hours of learning are constituted of thematic presentations with theoretical notions and practical case studies. Preparations and seeking of information will be requested in order to increase the interactivity of the course. Visits and professional meetings, personal works, invitation to conferences and other activities are also in the program.
Content	The contents are closely related to those of LCLIB2125 also biannual to avoid duplication and to offer a full range of issues in library management and bibliometrics.
