German Linguistics: Linguistic Pragmatics

5 credits	15.0 h	Q1

Teacher(s)	Sabel Joachim ;
Language :	Deutsch
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Main themes	Study of the use and meaning of utterances in communication and conversation. The role of pragmatic knowledge and (word and sentence) semantic knowledge in understanding language.
Aims	1 At the end of the course, the students should: have developed a knowledge of German linguistics, especially a knowledge of the specific problems of linguistic pragmatics, have developed a knowledge in theoretical and applied linguistics, have acquired the competence in linguistic argumentation, be able to present competently one of the topics of this course. - - - - The contribution of this Teaching Unit to the development and command of the skills and learning outcomes of the programme(s) can be accessed at the end of this sheet, in the section entitled "Programmes/courses offering this Teaching Unit".
Evaluation methods	Presentation of one of the topics of the course and a written exam.
Teaching methods	/
Content	We will study speech act theory, especially the theories of J. L. Austin and J. R. Searle. The topics are: the classification of speech acts, the difference between perfomative and constative utterances, indirect speech acts. Then we will discuss the theory of conversational implicatures (P. Grice), i.e. the cooperation principle and the conversational maxims and Grices' further developed model of conversation in Sperber and Wilson's book "Relevance." Finally, we will look at the role of word and sentence semantics, in contrast to pragmatics, for a theory of meaning in language. All topics will pay special attention to spoken German. The course is a lecture that requires the student's active participation in discussions, in dealing with exercises, and in reading scientific texts. Furthermore, every student has to give a short presentation on one of the discussed topics at the end of the course.
