This biannual learning unit is not being organized in 2017-2018 !

Language :	French
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Main themes	The teaching unit addresses the criticisms of Christian ethics and reflects on the foundations of an ethical approach of Christian inspiration and its links to other branches of theology and the human sciences. It develops, according to the other ethics courses of the program, fundamental themes such as autonomy, conscience/consciousness, natural law, relation to Scripture and tradition. It deals fundamentally with the main characteristics of an ethic of Christian inspiration.

Evaluation methods	Evaluation: Oral examination
Content	The course presents the major criticisms of Christian ethics (Marx, Nietzsche, Freud), and starts from them a theological reflection that begins by drawing the framework of theological reflection by posing the great notions like creation, covenant, salvation, and then revisiting the notions of freedom, law, conscience, etc., tensioning with the courses of the program devoted to social ethics and bioethics. The final chapter is devoted to the specificity of Christian ethics and to a reflection on the major components of the ethical approach in general and the ethical approach inspired by the Christian faith in particular. If the method is primarily taught by the lectures, it should be noted that particular themes can be addressed or inserted in certain chapters depending on the interests of the students.
Other infos	Prerequisites: None Support: A structure of the course is offered to the students as well as articles and book chapters.
