Evaluation methods	Due to the COVID-19 crisis, the information in this section is particularly likely to change. The evaluation will be based on group presentations and/or an oral exam.
Teaching methods	Due to the COVID-19 crisis, the information in this section is particularly likely to change. Lectures + student presentations (or "classes inversées").
Content	This seminar deals with the economic analysis of international migration. It is divided into two main parts. In the first part, the professor will give some lectures on the following topics: 1. international migration and international trade, 2. skilled emigration and economic development, 3. the optimal migration duration, 4. the political economy of immigration policies, 5. the welfare and labour-market effects of immigration. The second part will be based on presentations by (groups of) students, who are expected to read and summarize the findings of some recent research papers on various aspects of international migration.
Inline resources	All documents will be readily made available to the students on Moodle or by sharing a Dropbox folder.
Bibliography	A reading list is provided at the beginning of the course.
