Teaching methods	Due to the COVID-19 crisis, the information in this section is particularly likely to change. The seminar is based on the following elements. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The students, in groups, prepare one business case per semester. They should also provide, in groups, some feedback on the business cases of their peers. • The students prepare, individually, one research question related to the society theme of the year and an answer to that question. They should also provide feedback on some research questions of their peers. • A set of guest speakers related to the business cases that are dealt with and to the society theme of the year.
Content	The course objectives are <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • to get the students accustomed to current managerial issues with a special focus on Belgian cases, • to get the students accustomed to some major global economic or political issues (the society theme of the year), • to get the students accustomed to the reading of some advanced press, • to provide students some learning in terms of reviewing work of others and providing feedback. The seminar is structured around: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A set of business talks focused on a small set of companies and the related business cases; • A set of general talks focused on a global society issue and its related research questions. For the business cases, the goal is to get a clear view on how each of these businesses works. The students have to prepare, in groups, several analysis of business cases. For the society issue, the goal is to get a solid understanding of one dimension of this issue. The students have to prepare, individually, one research question related to the issue and deliver an answer to that question.
