Content	The Byzantine state developed a particular form of organisation. During the eleven centuries of its existence (330 AD to 1453 AD), it underwent profound modifications, starting out with a system akin to the Roman empire to arrive at a medieval system. The course will illustrate this evolution by a study of several themes, such as the role of the emperors, the administration of the territories, the financial and fiscal systems, etc. References to Byzantine sources will enable to better understand the daily functioning of the Byzantine state and to appreciate its characteristics and evolution.
Inline resources	Documentation is available to the student on the Moodle site of the course: course map, bibliography, texts of several chapters, documents.
Bibliography	Textes et matériaux fournis par l'enseignant / Texts and documents provided by the teacher.
Other infos	No prerequisite. Knowledge of Greek is not necessary for this course. English-friendly course: course taught in French but offering facilities in English.
