Learning outcomes
Evaluation methods	Depending on the health situation, evaluations will be based on the quality of intermediate and final written work, on the quality of oral presentations and on the discussion about the work of the other students.
Teaching methods	The course will consist of lectures and guided oral presentations from students. Students will be exposed to contemporary debates and papers that combine economic theory and empirics to address those debates.
Content	European Economic Policy in Africa. Africa and Europe are continental neighbours with significant flows between them in natural resources, ideas and people. This seminar will examine how European policies affect economic outcomes in different African countries. The course will examine tradeoffs between multilateral and bilateral interventions. How does EU policy towards Africa differ from interests of individual European countries? Topics covered will include migration, trade, and development finance.
Inline resources	Slides, homework exercises, and compulsory readings will be available on the course webpage on Moodle UCL (http://moodleucl.uclouvain.be/).
