Evaluation methods	The MRQ (Multiple Response Questions) exam consists of 30 items with 4 answer options of which 1 or more are correct. One point is awarded if all correct options are chosen and no incorrect options are chosen. No points are awarded if there is no answer, or if not all the correct options have been chosen, or if one or more incorrect options have been chosen. The evaluation will be the same for all sessions.
Teaching methods	The teaching will take place in several formats: lectures and flipped classroom courses
Content	On the one hand, the various aspects of "acculturation" will be addressed: enculturation of people in an immigration situation, consideration of identities (ethnic, linguistic, class and socio-economic), examination of the variability of trajectories and of the factors influencing the adjustment of individuals and groups at the psychological and social levels. On the other hand, the processes of managing diversity (intercultural relations, communication and training) and non-discrimination in a wide range of social contexts, including organisational and professional settings (e.g. colour-blind and multicultural perspectives) will be considered.
Inline resources	Slides presented during the course (compulsory; see Moodle) + book by Serge Guimond (compulsory; see library - an electronic version is available) + book chapters and scientific articles (compulsory; see Moodle)
Bibliography	Guimond, S. (2019). Les politiques de diversité: Antidote à l'intolérance et à la radicalisation . Bruxelles: Mardaga.
