Learning outcomes
Evaluation methods	Continuous formative assessment during the term. Evaluation during the January session (written examination). In case of a failure or an absence at the January examination, the exam will have to be taken during the August/September session (written examination). Any use of machine translation, whatever its form, is forbidden.
Teaching methods	In-class sessions in computer lab.
Content	This course sets out to help students develop advanced skills and expertise in international and European affairs-related translation from various perspectives (diplomacy, geopolitics, geostrategy, etc.) and to teach them the specifics of the specialism, including how to adapt their translation to the type of text, the client's profile and the purpose intended. The course will attempt to simulate the execution conditions of a real translation project. Students will have to tackle the various steps of a German-to-French translation project with professionalism, from order to delivery (i.e. administrative tasks, documentary and terminological research, translation and revision). Students will be asked to translate one or several texts dealing with international politics and geostrategy, to meet specific deadlines and to rely on CAT tools when appropriate.
