Teacher(s)	Meunier Fanny ;
Language :	English
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Prerequisites	Level B1 of the Common Europea Framework of Reference for Languages
Main themes	Introduction to grammatical analysis : the sentence and its constituents Detailed review of the English grammatical system.
Learning outcomes	At the end of this learning unit, the student is able to : By the end of the course, the students will be able to illustrate, explain (with the help of the appropriate grammatical metalanguage) and justify English grammar in use. Students will be able to: 1 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - master the basic notions of English grammar and their analysis - understand and explain the coherence of the English grammatical system (i.e. via tense usage, modality, etc) - illustrate relationships between grammar, lexis and discourse - apply the grammatical rules in interactive competence
Evaluation methods	Continuous assessment during the year (20% of the final grade) : Weighted results of continuous assessment tests during the year (theory and exercises). These tests are compulsory and will be announced at least two weeks in advance. January session (40% of final grade): Written exam on the material covered in the first semester (theory and exercises). In case of failure, the student will have to repeat this part at the June session. June session (40% of final grade): Written examination on the material covered in the second semester (theory and exercises). The final mark for the June session is the weighted average of the 3 parts. A failure in either the January or June written exam will automatically result in an overall failure and the student will have to retake the failed part. As our aim is to train language specialists, we attach great importance to the correctness/precision of the answers given to the questions in each part of the course. A penalty may be applied for language errors inherent in the subject. September session : Written examination on: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - the subject covered in the first semester (if the exemption has not been obtained in January or June) for 50% of the final mark - the subject covered in the second semester (if the exemption was not obtained in June) for 50% of the final mark. The final mark for the September session is the weighted average of the two semesters. A failure in one of the two parts will automatically result in an overall failure. As our aim is to train language specialists, we attach great importance to the correctness/precision of the language used in answering questions in each part of the course. A penalty may be applied for language errors inherent in the subject.
Teaching methods	Lectures on the various chapters of the book (30h) accompanied by exercises (15h). The exercise sessions can be a mix of in-class sessions and/or exercises to be done online. For the in-class exercise sessions, the format will be that of the 'question-answer' methodology and of the integration of the student's previous grammatical knowledge in the building of new knowledge.
Content	The course provides a detailed study of English grammar for undergraduates and masters-level students specializing in English. The reference book used will be A STUDENT'S INTRODUCTION TO ENGLISH GRAMMAR (second edition) - R. Huddleston, G. Pullum and B. Reynolds, Cambridge University Press, 2022. Chapter 1 is a brief introduction to some general issues relating to the linguistic study of English. Chapter 2 introduces some crucial concepts and provides a brief survey of the content of the entire book. Chapters 3, 5, 6 and

	7 deal with the major lexical categories - verbs, nouns, determinatives, adjectives, adverbs, and prepositions - and the structure of the phrases that they head. Chapter 4 describes the structure of simple, positive, active, declarative, non-coordinate clauses with no special stylistic reordering (in other words 'canonical clauses'). Chapter 8 focusses on adjuncts (modifiers and supplements). Chapters 9 to 16 present a step-by-step introduction to the ways in which clauses may diverge in structure from canonical ones : negation (Chapter 9), non-declarative clause types (Chapter 10), subordination (Chapter 11), relativization (Chapter 12), comparison (Chapter 13), non-finiteness (Chapter 14), coordination (Chapter 15), and discourse-sensitive 'information-packaging' constructions (Chapter 16). Exercises are available for each chapter.
