In order to achieve this, he will have mastered the various working tools, and will also be able to carry out a personal research on the Byzantine institutions.
Evaluation methods	The exam is a reading of a Byzantine text (in translation): the student selects the life of an emperor in the Chronicle of Skylitzes (in translation) and is invited to identify the institutional elements referred to in the text. The details of the exam are presented during the first class. The exam can take place in French or in English.
Teaching methods	Lectures.
Content	The Byzantine state developed a particular form of organisation. During the eleven centuries of its existence (330 AD to 1453 AD), it underwent profound modifications, starting out with a system akin to the Roman empire to arrive at a medieval system. The course will illustrate this evolution by a study of several themes, such as the role of the emperors, the administration of the territories, the financial and fiscal systems, etc. References to Byzantine sources will enable to better understand the daily functioning of the Byzantine state and to appreciate its characteristics and evolution.
Inline resources	Documentation is available to the student on the Moodle site of the course: course map, bibliography, texts of several chapters, documents.
Bibliography	Textes et matériaux fournis par l'enseignant / Texts and documents provided by the teacher.
Other infos	No prerequisite. Knowledge of Greek is not necessary for this course.
Faculty or entity in charge	EHAC
