Q1

This learning unit is not being organized during this academic year.

Teacher(s)	Van Oyen Geert ;
Language :	French
Place of the course	Louvain-la-Neuve
Main themes	This cross-curricular course, jointly given by two professors, will focus on a biblical theme or figure common to both Testaments. [On theme, for example: the temple, the sacrifice, the law, the stranger, etc.; on figure, for example: David, Moses, Elijah, Abraham, etc.]
Learning outcomes
Evaluation methods	The evaluation will be based on a written assignment, also to be presented orally. Except for students who follow the course at a distance only, attendance and active participation to the classes are mandatory. In case of more than three unjustified absences, the course will not be validated. In Q3, the evaluation will be based on a written assignment.
Teaching methods	The course involves working on texts and reading of articles (possibly in foreign languages).
Content	This year, the theme of the course is food (or diet). It appears many times in the Old Testament and in the New Testament. Moreover, many NT texts evoking this theme allude or refer to passages in the OT; this intertextuality creates an excellent opportunity to discuss the relationship between the two main parts of the Bible. Furthermore, archaeology, anthropology, and sociology shed light on diet in ancient Israel and in ancient Palestine.
Bibliography	Voir Peter Altmann, "Food and Food Production", Oxford Bibliographies in Biblical Studies . (disponible sur Moodle, avec d'autres ressources et indications bibliographiques)
Faculty or entity in charge	TEBI
