Introduction

Admission

For the specific conditions of this program : refer to the French version

Information

Learning outcomes

To offer first level students (students in the first two years of their degree) an introduction to oriental studies, in particular Eastern languages and civilizations, in the following domains :

- Ancient Egypt and the Near-East, including the Biblical world;
- Christian Byzantium and the East, including the Caucasus;
- The Arab and Muslim worlds;
- India and the Far East.

Teaching method

The courses make use of a variety of teaching techniques and strategies (lectures, group work, individual work, seminars, reading etc.) which help students to acquire the necessary skills. Certain courses also use e-learning techniques (provision of resources and exercises, teaching devices, collective sharing and assessment of work).

Evaluation

According to the type of course, there are different forms of assessment. Certain courses have traditional oral and/or written assessments (which take place in the examination periods in January, June and August/September), while seminars involve student participation throughout the semester and the assessment of individual work. Further details on the assessment method are given at the beginning of each course.

Course examinations on communication skills are designed to test performance, that is to say practical use of the language in meaningful situations, which demonstrate students' level of ability.

Teaching activities are assessed in accordance with the rules currently in force at the University (see General Examination Regulations). Students may also find additional information on the particular methods of assessment in the course descriptions.
