Introduction

Introduction

The bachelor's degree in translation and interpreting is a first-cycle programme which introduces students to other languages and cultures, opens them up to the world and deepens their knowledge of French – language A in the programme – and of two foreign languages from a dozen language combinations. At the start of year 2, students may add introductory courses in a third foreign language.

English		x	x	x	x	x	x	x
German	x*					x		x

This programme is specifically for German-speaking students.

The faculty offers two streams for students to choose from: a traditional translation and interpreting programme or an intercultural communication programme.

- Translation and interpreting programme

  At the end of the bachelor's degree, you will have mastered the written and oral communication skills needed to render a foreign language in French, whether translating written texts or interpreting speeches (consecutive interpreting). During the programme – which is based on professional practice – you will be encouraged to reflect on the evolution of the profession with respect to new technologies, and to discover different translation tools. An exchange programme with a foreign university will also enable you to gain a better understanding of the culture of the country whose language you are studying.

- Intercultural communication programme

  At the end of the bachelor's degree, you will have mastered written and oral communication in the two foreign languages of your language combination, and will have developed advanced skills in French. During the programme, you will be introduced to intercultural communication from an interdisciplinary perspective. You will discover the subtleties of communication in multicultural environments.

In both programmes, an exchange with a foreign university will also enable you to gain a better understanding of the culture of the country whose language you are studying.

Programme structure

The bachelor's degree in translation and interpreting is a first-cycle programme consisting of 180 credits spread over three years (60 credits in year 1, year 2 and year 3). There are two streams for students to choose from: a traditional translation and interpreting programme or an intercultural communication programme.

Translation and interpreting programme

The programme covers three main areas:

1. The French language: translation and interpreting are carried out from the foreign language into French, which students have a perfect command of. The programme therefore places great emphasis on perfecting French language skills through many courses spread over the three years of the bachelor's degree.
2. Foreign languages: the aim is to acquire a thorough knowledge of at least two other languages. A large part of the programme is therefore devoted to practising foreign languages, discovering cultures and learning about translation and interpreting.
3. General education: translation and interpreting require a solid general education at university level. For example, introductory courses in law, economics, sociology and new linguistic technologies help students to enrich their general knowledge.

Intercultural communication programme

The programme covers three main areas:

1.   The French language: translation and interpreting are carried out from the foreign language into French, which students have a perfect command of. The programme therefore places great emphasis on perfecting French language skills through many courses spread over the three years of the bachelor's degree.

2. Foreign languages: the aim is to acquire a thorough knowledge of at least two other languages. A large part of the programme is therefore devoted to practising foreign languages, discovering cultures and learning about translation and interpreting.

3. Introduction to communication sciences: the aim is to provide a background in communication in multicultural contexts. Courses in communication sciences, organisational communications and sociology – some of which can be taken in English or Dutch – provide students with knowledge and skills in communication.

Language combinations

When deciding on their programme, students choose a language combination:

Language combinations	English	German	Arabic	Chinese	Spanish	Italian	Sign Language	Dutch	Russian	Turkish
English		x	x	x	x	x	x	x	x	x
German	x*					x		x	x

*This programme is specifically for German-speaking students.

Courses in oral and written language, grammar, translation and interpreting are offered in all language combinations.

Some languages require prior knowledge: English and Dutch courses are based on secondary school prerequisites. The Saint-Louis - Bruxelles campus offers summer preparatory courses in these two languages.

No prerequisites are required for the other languages, for which beginners' courses are offered. For German and Spanish, students will be divided into groups based on a language test taken at the start of the academic year.

At the end of the bachelor's programme, students will have acquired a thorough knowledge of the two foreign languages chosen, a command of the subtleties of the French language and solid general knowledge. They will be well prepared for their future career.

Specific programme for German-speaking students

As a German speaker, a specific programme is available to you if you choose English and German. The programme includes practice courses in French grammar for German speakers and gives them the opportunity to translate from French into German in a large part of the translation courses. These courses are taught by French- and German-speaking professors.

You may also take part in an ERASMUS exchange in a German-speaking country or many other destinations – including France and the United Kingdom – in order to perfect your knowledge of another language in your language combination.

Introduction to the study of a third foreign language

After acquiring the 60 credits in year 1, students may add introductory courses in a third foreign language in addition to their bachelor's degree. This means that you are able to add 15 credits to your programme, which will be listed in the annexe to your diploma. This represents a true asset for your future academic and professional career.

Course prerequisites

The table below lists the activities (course units, or CUs) for which there are one or more prerequisites within the programme, i.e. the programme CU for which the learning outcomes must be certified and the corresponding credits awarded by the jury before registering for that CU.

These activities are also identified in the detailed programme: their title is followed by a yellow square.

Prerequisites and student's annual programme

As the prerequisite is for CU registration puposes only, there are no prerequisites within a programme year. Prerequisites are defined between CUs of different years and therefore influence the order in which the student will be able to register for the programme's CUs.

In addition, when the jury validates a student's individual programme at the beginning of the year, it ensures its coherence, meaning that it may:

- require the student to combine registration in two separate CUs which it considers necessary from a pedagogical point of view.
- transform a prerequisite into a corequisite if the student is in the final year of a degree course.

For more information, please consult the Academic Regulations and Procedures (https://uclouvain.be/fr/decouvrir/rgee.html).

Access based on validation of professional experience

Admission to undergraduate studies on the basis of accreditation of knowledge and skills obtained through professional or personal experience (Accreditation of Prior Experience)

Subject to the general requirements laid down by the authorities of the higher education institution, with the aim of admission to the undergraduate programme, the examination boards accredit the knowledge and skills that students have obtained through their professional or personal experience.

This experience must correspond to at least five years of documented activity, with years spent in higher education being partially taken into account: 60 credits are deemed equivalent to one year of experience, with a maximum of two years being counted. At the end of an assessment procedure organized by the authorities of the higher education institution, the Examination Board will decide whether a student has sufficient skills and knowledge to successfully pursue undergraduate studies.

After this assessment, the Examination Board will determine the additional courses and possible exemptions constituting the supplementary requirements for the student's admission.

Teaching method

While some courses are taught in large auditoriums, small groups are preferred for learning activities in language courses (particularly for practical work, language laboratories and work in computer rooms). For German, Dutch and Spanish language courses, students are placed in groups according to their level in order to provide a favourable environment for written and oral expression. Our teaching staff are there to create an opportunity for full language immersion.

Methodological assistance

Beginning in the first term of year 1, students will have the opportunity to familiarise themselves with university work. The Academic Guidance Service (AGS) offers a range of activities such as peer support, tutorials and revision period support. The programmes for these activities are available on the AGS webpage (https://uclouvain.be/fr/sites/saint-louis-bruxelles/conseils-et-accompagnement.html).

Evaluation

The evaluation methods comply with the regulations concerning studies and exams (https://uclouvain.be/fr/decouvrir/ rgee.html). More detailed explanation of the modalities specific to each learning unit are available on their description sheets under the heading "Learning outcomes evaluation method".

Assessment methods comply with the general regulations concerning studies and exams and are adapted to the course objectives. Assessments can take the form of a traditional written exam, an oral exam or written assignments. Further information on the specific assessment methods may be found in the course descriptions, under the heading 'Assessment methods'.

Three examination sessions are organised during the academic year, in January, June and August/September. First-year students who do not achieve passing grades in the January session may retake examinations in June and/or September.
