GLOR2804 History of oriental writings

[30h] 4 credits

This two-yearly course is taught in 2004-2005, 2006-2007,...

This course is taught in the 1st and 2nd semester

Teacher(s): Yves Duhoux
Language: french
Level: 2nd cycle course

Aims

Students will have a general idea of the principal systems or oriental scripts and of their history. They will become familiar with questions concerning the origins and the definition of writing. They will become aware of the problems of adapting scripts to the languages they represent.

Main themes

To present the major questions raised by the history of oriental scripts. How and why did these scripts come about ? What were their components ? To what extent are they phonetically faithful to the languages they transcribe ? What were the oldest oriental scripts (Egyptian, cuneiform) ? History of the alphabet (precursors, the first examples, their descendants). Some important scripts of the Far East (China, Japan, Indus script, and the Indian sub-continent).

Content and teaching methods

Content: 1st part: general theory of writing; the prehistory of scripts; the first scripts; birth of the alphabet. 2nd part: some important scripts of the Far East (China, Japan, Indus script, and the Indian sub-continent).
