

Faculty of Economic, Social and Political Sciences

SOC2479 Social philosophy seminar

[30h] 3.5 credits

This course is taught in the 2nd semester

Teacher(s): Jean-Michel Chaumont, Mark Hunyadi
Language: French
Level: Second cycle

Aims

To develop students' ability to link empirical research work to normative perspectives.
 To develop students' ability to reflect on ethical problems inherent in the practice of sociological research.
 To develop students' ability to define specific features of the position of the researcher with that of the actor.
 ~ To appropriate a normative framework: the theory of recognition.

Main themes

The themes addressed vary every year. The choice of themes is the subject of a discussion with the students.

Content and teaching methods

Methodology

The seminar is open on alternate sessions to researchers and to actors interested in the theme under discussion. One of them talks about his/her research or activities, and focuses mainly on the way s/he is attempting to link the empirical and the normative. The lecture is followed by a debate. Open sessions alternate sessions reserved for the students, and designed to deepen discussion on issues previously raised, and/or to prepare for forthcoming sessions. At the end of the cycle, the students present a summary in sub groups of what they have agreed.

Other information (prerequisite, evaluation (assessment methods), course materials recommended readings, ...)

None.

The summary presented to the group by the students will be the subject of a critical commentary that aims to deepen certain aspects of the lecture. The examination focuses on this deepening. File of reading material relating to the theme under discussion.

Other credits in programs

ANTR3DS Diplôme d'études spécialisées en anthropologie