

Faculty of Psychology and Education Sciences

PSY2310 Advanced questions in human development : adolescence

[30h] 3 credits

Teacher(s): James Day
Language: French
Level: Second cycle

Aims

- to go into detail in the knowledge in the field of adolescent development.
- to draw the educational and clinical implications of this theoretical knowledge

Main themes

- Adolescence is tackled in the frame of a clinical psychology of development, whose foundations are the cognitive-behavioural theories and the works on the identity and the reactions to the critical life events.
- different themes will be studied : the anthropological aspects of adolescence; the adolescence as crisis and conflict; puberty and sexuality; moral development and negotiation strategies; identity; control, autonomy and life competencies; adolescents in difficulty...

Content and teaching methods

- Adolescence is tackled in the frame of a clinical psychology of development, whose foundations are the cognitive-behavioural theories and the works on the identity and the reactions to the critical life events.
- different themes will be studied : the anthropological aspects of adolescence; the adolescence as crisis and conflict; puberty and sexuality; moral development and negotiation strategies; identity; control, autonomy and life competencies; adolescents in difficulty...

Other information (prerequisite, evaluation (assessment methods), course materials recommended readings, ...)

PSP 1300 "Psychology of human development".

For the students from other UCL programs or from other universities who did not have this course, one or two sessions of "levelling" will be organised.

Lectures, discussions of texts and of research results

Other credits in programs

PSY23/3	Troisième licence en sciences psychologiques (Psychologie clinique du développement et des apprentissages)	(3 credits)	Mandatory
----------------	--	-------------	-----------